

08-Nov.-17

Dear Parents / Students,

Greetings from Lloyd Law College!

Lloyd Law College is a learning-centric academic community committed to excellent legal education. We create intellectually stimulating environment that helps students develop through case studies and case analysis; hone their writing, argumentation, and counseling skills; and think broadly and critically about legal problem-solution. We work to keep these programs at the vanguard of legal education. We takes efforts to provide an individualized support approach to each students' academic and specific needs and concerns.

A. V. DICEY - Lectures on the Relation between Law and Public Opinion in England during the Nineteenth Century: My aim in these lectures is to exhibit the close dependence of leg- islation, and even of the absence of legislation, in England during the nine- teenth century upon the varying currents of public opinion.

The fact of this dependence will be assumed by most students with even too great readiness. We are all of us so accustomed to endow public opinion with a mysterious or almost supernatural power, that we neglect to examine what it is that we mean by public opinion, to measure the true limits of its authority, and to ascertain the mode of its operation. Surprise may indeed be felt, not at the statement that law depends upon opinion, but at this assertion being limited to England, and to England during the last century. The limitation, however, is intentional, and admits of full justification.

True indeed it is that the existence and the alteration of human institutions must, in a sense, always and everywhere depend upon the beliefs or feelings, or, in other words, upon the opinion of the society in which such institutions flourish.

"As force," writes Hume, is always on the side of the governed, the governors have nothing to support them but opinion. It is, therefore, on opinion only that government is founded; and this maxim extends to the most despotic and most military governments, as well as to the most free and most popular. The Soldan of Egypt, or the Emperor of Rome, might drive his harmless subjects, like brute beasts, against their sentiments and inclination; but he must, at least, have led his mame-lukes, or praetorian bands, like men, by their opinion.

Two E-Books including this one are attached with this mail for your reading.

National Law Day Celebration 2017

ABOUT THE CONFERENCE

Law Commission of India in Association with Niti Ayog, Government of India is organising a two days National Law Day celebration on Saturday 25 and Sunday 26 November 2017 at Vigyan Bhawan, New Delhi. The program is first of its kind setting a platform for sharing of ideas among three organs of state namely, legislature, executive and the judiciary. The Inaugural Address will be delivered by Mr. Ram Nath Kovind Hon'ble, the President of India and the Valedictory address will be delivered by Mr. Narendra Modi Hon'ble, the Prime Minister of India. The eminent speakers on the dais shall be the cabinet ministries namely Mr. Arun Jaitly, Hon'ble the Union Finance Minister, Mr. Ravi Shankar Prasad Hon'ble the Union Law Minister along with other notable ministries of the Union and state departments. The top most judicial offices of the Union notably Hon'ble Mr. Justice Deepak Misra, Chief Justice of India and the state's highest judiciary notably Hon'ble Chief Justices of various high courts of India shall preside over the conference discussion sessions. There shall be presence in the conference by the public policy makers, principal think tank and most argumentative lawyers from all across India. Conference sessions are based on the following themes;

CONFERENCE SESSIONS
SESSION – I	Judicial Review and Parliamentary Democracy	Balancing the separation of Powers
SESSION – II	Appointments to Higher Judiciary	Constraints of Collegium System and Reforms Ahead
SESSION – III	Structural Reforms for overcoming Delays in Justice Delivery
SESSION – IV	Scope of Judicial Powers	Judicial Activism

PARTICIPATION CRITERIA & PROCESS

Lloyd encourages the participation of its student community and teachers for the coveted National Law Day Celebrations Conference to be held on 25-26 November 2017 at Vigyan Bhawan, New Delhi. All the participants will be given a participation certificate signed by the Hon'ble Dr. Justice B. S. Chauhan, Chairman, Law Commission of India.

The total capacity of audience for this conference is 1200 approx. This is an association of approx. 20 law schools in India. Lloyd Law College is one of the key organisers so is contributing greatly in various committees of this conference like, Core Committee, Organising Committee, Research Papers Committee, Reception Committee etc. Lloyd has the cap of 120 student and 20 teachers who can participate in this conference. We would be sending the list of the faculties and students who would be participating in the conference to the Conference Secretariat, Niti Ayog, Government of India latest by tomorrow Thursday 09 November 2017, 04 pm.

- ONLY BA.LL.B. - Sem. I, III, V and LL.B. - Sem. I (regular students only) are permitted to apply for participation from Lloyd student community.
- NO BA.LL.B. - Sem. VII, IX and LL.B. - Sem. I (working) III (all) V (all) are permitted to apply for participation in this conference, their working days are still overdue.

The permitted applicant should comply with the following conditions;

1. Valid Photo Identity proof,
2. College Uniform - ready for both days,
3. No - Indisciplinary proceeding should be pending against the participant in the college or any criminal complaint filed in any thana against the participant or pending criminal investigation in any thana or trial against the participant in any court of law in India,
4. 70% minimum attendance as on Tuesday 31 Oct. 2017,

For Participation, the intended participant should take the print out of the attached form and submit the same after filling it to Mr. Ankit Rai sir - Faculty Incharge Student's Co-ordination - National Law Day Conference latest by tomorrow Thursday 09 November 2017, only during 2.30 to 4.00 pm in his office at the first floor.

Feel free to contact in any further regard,

Akhilesh Kumar Khan,
Coordinator, Organising Committee,
National Law Day Celebration 2017,
Law Commission of India,